The Religious Feud.

Once, after many days of quiet and peace, RELIGION, hearing rumors of threats and attacks among the children of men, in her joy descended from her retreat, to inspect her champions and to examine their arms and their strength. She found them armed cap-a-pie, ready for the fight, and fired by a zeal beyond her anticipations or desire. She beheld a great army in menacing attitude, wielding their weapons with the swiftness of lightning, and they were as brilliant, too. Her pale cheek flushed; as she thought even religious difference was better than no religion at all; even as sickness is preferable to death. What a sight! Swarms, swarms of soldiers; captains and generals without number; powder and cannon beyond computation. This was more than she had expected, and great was her joy as she contemplated the sight in the distance; but, as she drew nearer, her frame began to tremble, her face became pale, her knees refused their support—she swooned. What she at first mistook for iron or steel, proved to be but lead and tin; the swords were of wood, the breastplates of linen, painted to suit; the helmets but wax, crested with (high nodding) plumes; their shields were of paper spangled with stars; their lances were but small splinters of reed; their banners naught but the web of a spider, and their powder naught but the seed of the poppy. They had thrown aside the good old arms of sterner days, and in their stead had chosen paper and cobweb, lead and reed. Nay, in their levity, they even mocked at the true old champions, the heroes of many a battle, and chose in their stead the shadows of night.

Bitter, very bitter, was the grief of RELIGION, hot were the tears that rolled down her faded cheek—she could not but mourn, though she durst not speak. Be of good courage, and refrain from tears we are on your side, and will fight to the last, was the shout of the great multitude ever so ready to greedy to taste and so slow justly to love. "Do you maintain your rights by the force of such arms? Is it only the flaming sword to which you use my name as a cover? Am I only to be the post by which to show your names. But lo! I forgot—I told the truth and I am banished for having told so once," gently replied the sweet angel, when a rolling tear sealed her lips: she turned aside and disoppeared—

Mortara Meeting.

Clippings from other Papers.

The Mortara Indignation Meeting

At Musical Hall on Saturday evening was an occasion for a grand display of patriotism, catholicity and eloquence.—The Hall was crowded to excess. Judge Hydenfeldt presided, and a dozen or so Vice Presidents and half a dozen Secretaries were appointed. A preamble and resolutions were adopted, denouncing the abduction of the Jewish child at Bologna as being sacrifical of the dearest rights of humanity, protesting against the repetition of such an act, espressing sympathy for the Mortara family "in their deep affliction," appealing to the head of the Catholic church to discourage the enforcement of a canon "which is opposed to the enlightenment of the present century," and requesting our Senators to use their exertions to bring the moral power of our Federal government to co-operate with European powers io suppress intolerance etc., etc. The preamble and resolutions were moderate, dignified and in good English. Speeches were made by Rev. Drs. Henry, Eckman, Scott and Peck, and by Col. Baker, F. P. Tracy and M. M. Noah. Henry was energetic and earnest; Eckman, sensible; Scott, comprehensive and full of common sense: Baker, eloquent, poetic and in one flight truly sublime; Peck weighty, exhortatory, and rather pathetic; Tracy, vehement and anti-Administration; and Noah, modest, sensible, brief, and to the point, as a newspaper man ought to be. The meeting was very enthusiastic, and the whole demonstration was of a character calculated to make a favorable impression as to the liberality of sentiment and moderation of our citizens, and the eloquence of our orators.—Pacific Methodist.

Let Them Be Separated.

The Mortara abduction case, which is exciting the whole Christian world just now, is but another illustration of the inevitable consequences resulting from a union of Church and State. Civil despotism and ecclesiastical corruption always follow such a union, whether in papal or Protestant countries. Catholic Italy and Spain and France, and Protestant England and America have in their turn furnished illustrations. Heretics were burnt in Madrid, butchered in Parsi, and imprisoned and tortured in a thousand ways in Italy. Catholic estates have been confiscated in England; Quaker's hats have been nailed to their heads in New England; Baptists have been fined and imprisoned in colonial Virginia; and even now Catholic Irishmen are plundered ao enrich English prelates. The tyranny and corruption of church establishments are usually in the exact ratio of the extent to which they can use secular power to enforce obedience to their dogmas and decrees. The State religion is almost universally a corrupt religion. The Church of England cannot be mentioned as an exceptiou. The piety and moral power of Great Britain are in a great measure outside of the establishment. That establishment is tottering to its fall, and the sooner it comes down, the better. The Catholic Church has wielded more secular power, and consequently has a longer catalogue of acts of oppression to answer for. Protestants have dark pages in their record, but it will soon become the unanimous decision of Christendom that Church and State are to be kept wholly and for ever distinct.

It will be well to bring out this principle at the present time in this country, for there are signs that the leven of the false principle that Cæsar's sword is to enforce the commands of Christ, is at work in our midst. Let us beware, while our indignation is boiling over the Mortara outrage, that we do not permit the odious principle from which it emanated to effect an insidious lodgment among ourselves.—Pacific Methodist.

The Mortara Outrage.

The mass meeting assembled at Musical Hall on Saturday night last, manifests in a most decided manner the deep seated devotion of the people of San Francisco to the principles of civil and religious liberty. Instigated by one common impulse, men of diversity of opinion on other subjects, joined in condemnation of the Papal authorities of Bologna, who abducted the boy Mortara from his parents. It is pleasing to see the unanimity of sentiment which prevails among all ranks of our citizens, native born or adopted, whenever any vital doctrine of an enlightened republicanism is attacked in any quarter of the world. In this instance, so lively has been the interest indicated throughout the country in the fate of this Jewish boy, that it must attach our Jewish population still more nearly to the political institutions of this free and happy land. The European journals contain accounts of various movements within the confines of the Catholic Church, itself, showing a repudiation of the action of the Papal authorities at Bologna; and from our knowledge of the members of that denomination in America, we feel satisfied that they will unite with their fellow citizens of every other religious persuasion in a similar disapprobation of the conduct of the authorities guilty of the Mortara abduction.

We append a portion of the eloquent and just remarks of the Rev. Dr. Scott and Col. E. D. Baker, in commenting upon the characteristics of the peculiar people, upon whose number the outrage above alluded to has been inflicted.—San Francisco Daily National.

(From the Olive Branch.)

Saving A Soul

It is interesting to observe the indignation everywhere excited by the story of little Mortara, the Jewish boy of Bologna. What can be more utterly absurd and outrageously unjust than the act of the "Holy Inquisition," tearing a child six years of age from his home and the arms of his parents, and claiming him for the Church, because the solemn farce of baptising him into the Roman Catholic faith had been secretly and dishonestly performed over his unconscious little body, when he was an infant. This reminds us of a robber who once went to obtain pardon of a priest for past and future crimes, confessing himself guilty of every one of the seven capital sins, not to speak of numberless minor offenses, but claiming that he had done, at least, one meritorious act in his life; he had converted a Jew. "Very good," said the priest; "how did you effect this miracle?"

"I robbed him," answered the penitent, "and then pitched him into the river. He entreated me to take him into the boat again, and I promised to do so on condition that he should renounce his religion. As he could not swim, and had already sunk once, he was forced to comply. 'Now, for mercy's sake,' he cried, ready to sink again, 'take me on board!' 'Declare yourself a Catholic,' said I, holding an oar over his head. He could just gasp—'I declare myself a Catholic!' and sunk again.

"So you saved him," said the priest.

"Did I!" replied the penitent. "Don't you see, if he had ever got ashore alive, he would have turned Jew again! That's the way to save a man's soul! 'Die in the faith,' said I, as he came up for the last time And as he reached out his hand for the boat, I just gave him a gentle tap on the head with the oar, and dispatched his soul to heaven."

We think there is equal merit in the way the Pope takes to save the soul of little Mortara.

The Russian and the Swiss Roman Cattolic Press.

[From the Zeitung des Judenthums.]

"From two quarters public opinion has spoken its verdict in the "Mortara affair," which (opinions) are of the more weight, as liberalism is not their foible. It is on one side Russia, and on the other, the Swiss Catholic press. The former speaks without disguise, that in sight of such occurrences we must begin to dispair of the much boasted progress of mankiod, and if man can here still dispute about right and wrong (referring to the "Univers), we must give up all hope of our ever coming at the true determination of right and wrong. In reference to the Catholic press of Switzerland, the Ausburg "Gazette" says: "The position of the Catholic press in the "Mortara affair" is not uninteresting. The principal organ of Catholic-Swizterland, the "Switzer Zeitung" expresses itself in the hardest terms about that infanti-rapt (Kinder. raub) and against its advocate the "Univers."

This language of the principal organs of the Catholic portion of Switzerland, has produced a universal favorable impression, and will probably be calculated to blunt the point of the sectarian feuds which recommenced lately. Most all important Protestant papers have taken notice of the above position of the Swiss organ."

PARIS.—Papers received of a later date inform us, that all Catholic governments of Europe have protested solemnly against the abduction of the Mortara child; but in vain, the papal nuncios at Paris published a circular note, notifying the world, of the determination of the Pope, not to restore the abducted child to its parents. Count Walewski hastens after the emperor, who is now at Campiegne, to receive instructions, as the sensation in Paris, created by the Pope's determination, is terrible and threatening.—Ib.

VIENNA. — AUSTRIAN DESPOTISM. — It it stated that the Austrian government has prohibited the journals from discussing the Mortara affair.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSIONS OF THE PRESS PROHIBITED.—On the 22nd an employee of the department of the interior was sent round to the Paris Newspapers, to inform them that they were prohibited in future from touching not only the subject of the Jew boy, Mortara, which has given rise to so much controversy between the "Univers" and the liberal press, bnt any question whatever that has reference to religion. The cause of this I mentioned a day or two ago.—Jewish Chronicle.

Toleration in Germany.

A German who has been traveling and making observations upon matters pertaining to religion, says that in Austria, notwithstanding the Concordat, he found more tolerance exercised towards the Jews than in Prussia. In the Austrian army there are a large number, several hundreds, of officers who profess the Jewish religion. At Venice he learned that the post of Secretary of the Academy or Institute is filled by an Israelite, Dr. Namia, who is at the same time chief physician of the great hospital. In general, he says, the classical organization has also preserved the ancient humanity, and one is astonished at the tolerance which is here to be met with, and which has not been so overawed by the omnipotence of the Pope as on this side the Alps, in the more believing, perhaps also more bigoted (Aberglaubischen), Germany. We fear that this witness is true, and that there is more of bigotry among the Lutherans of some parts of Germany, as in Mecklenburg, than in any part of the Roman Catholic world. When the Emperor Ferdinand, of Austria, came for the first time to Milan, after the death of Francis 1.,he received the salutations of the various corporations. The Chamber of Commerce selected as as its representative a Jew and a Protestant. In Venice there has been for many years a handsome synagogue. In German States, even the most advanced, no Israelite can fill the meanest office, since the oath of a Christian is required. But in Catholic Italian Austria many Jews are advocates, even under the eye of St. Anthony of Padua. In Novara, the lectures of an Israelite professor of history, are attended by two hundred persons, among whom are to be found Clergy of the Catholic Church. It is possible also, in Piedmont, for a Jew to be made an officer without offence. In Venice, the learned historian Romanin, a Jew, is on friendly terms with many of the clergy, although in his "History of Venice," he has not failed to record various instances of fanaticism.—Clerical Journal.

On Spiritual Influence

The opinion that men are acted upon and infltenced by spiritual beings, whether called angels, spirits, demons or devils, is coeval with the earliest records of our race, and co-extensive with all human society. There never was a period when it did not prevail, nor a people that did not entertain it. The theological systems of every nation on the globe with which we have any acquaintance give the doctrine a permanent place. The Jewish, Egyptian, Indian, Persian, Chaldean Grecian, and Roman records attest the fact. The ancient philosophers—men who not only impressed themselves on the age in which they lived, but the traces of whose deep wisdom are not yet entirely effaced—universally admitted and inculcated the doctrine, not excepting even the founders of what are called atheistical sects. Thales, the earliest amongst the Grecian philosophers, according to Cicero, Plutarch, Strobœus, and the Christian philosopher Athenagoras, taught that the souls of men after death were spiritual substances, distinguisned into good and evil, and that they acted directly and powerfully on men during their life in this world. The same doctrine was taught by the Fgyptian priests before the time of Thales, as we are told by Jamblicus and others; and such was the theory of Pythagoras and Plato, as we learn from, Plutarch, Prellus, aud Fbaricius. Yeno and his followers maintained the same doctrine with a clearness and force hardly credible when we consider the age in which they lived.—Cralle.

What an Insult.

A knave, when he would be thoroughly revenged on his enemy, makes the injuries which have been inflicted, not on himself, but on others, the pretext of his attack. He thus engages the world as a partisan in his quarrel, and dignifies his private hate, by givlng it the air of disinterested resentment. When Augustus wished to put in force the Lex læsæ majestatis, for suppressing libels and lampoons, he took care to do it, says Aurelius, not in his own name, but in the name of the majesty of the Roman people. —Lacon.

Lost Papers.

Out of the miriads of newspapers that are mailed at the San Francisco Post Office to persons at the East, or vice versa. it is said that thousands never reach their destination. And it is an equally well-ascertained fact that numerous bags of this kind of matter are taken weekly from one Post Office at the East, to be sold to the junk dealers, who in turn dispose of it to the paper makers. The clerks in this somewhat unreliable branch of the public service should be well-read men.—We have heard of one who has in the course of several years accumulated an immense pile of illustrated journals, magazines, &c. All printed matter that finds its way into the Post Offitce is evidently regarded as legitimate plunder by many of the employees.—Golden Era.

Jewish Intelligence.

BRESLAU.—A new synagogue will be built here. 80, 000 thalers, are subscribed already, to which Mr. Heyman signed 3,000 thalers. Also in Gleivitz the building of a new synagogue is expected.—Israelite.

RADOWSK, (Silesia).—A calabastic rabbi of the most illiterate cast is the oracle of many in this city, especially of tho "half educated" and cold atheists whenever a misfortune comes on them. They are alike everywhere. Here they turn spirit rappers from sheer enlightenment.—Ib.

LISSA.—Chief Rabbi Hirsh Arbarbanel celebrated his 70th birthday, under the most enthnsiastic congratulations of his congregation.—Ib.

LONDON.—The Ausburg Gazette says, that the election of L. Magnus, as a mayor of Queensborrow was the first example of the kind in that province; but this is not so, the mayor of Leiken who registered the births of the children of the present king of Belgium, was also an Israelite.—Ib.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The emperor will shortly have proclaimed a decree of general toleration. The council of ministers have this document under consideration now.—Ib.

CONSULAR APPOINTMENT.—We are informed by last week's "Gazette," that Mr. James Hart, a co religionist, Consul for Mexico, has been appointed Consul for the rupublic of Salvador.

PRUSSIAN ELECTIONS.—At Berlin, M. Veit, a bookseller of the Jewish persuasion, has been eleeted by the Liberal party as one of their representatives in the assembly.

PETERSBURG.—A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD.—A letter from Petersbnrg of the 14th, says, inter alia, the house of Rothschild has formed in the Russian capital, a branch establishment, which will be represented by M. Gunsberg. Some sensation has been created among the Russian financiers by the measure.

INTENDED PROSECUTION OF THE UNIVERS. I learn that the Jewish Consistory have resolved on prosecuting M. Veuillet, for a late article, in which the Israelites are represented as breakfasting on little children.

HANOVER.—GRANT FOR JEWISH WORSHIP.—The Hanoverian Chambers have this year also voted a grant of 8,000 francs towards the support of the Jewish schools and Synagogues.

CATHOLICISM AGAINST FREEMASONRY.—A letter from Buenos Ayres, in the Havre Journal, states that the bishop of that place has excommunicated all freemasons, and declared their doctrine incompatible with those of the Catholic Church. In consequence of this, the clergy have exhorted from the pulpit the wives and the children of freemasons to quit them, and servants to denounce them.

FORMATION OF A NEW JEWISH CHRISTIAN SECT.—The "Elberfelb Gazette" announces the formation of a new Jewish Christian sect by a certain Pick, a convert to Christianity, who teaches that baptised Jews should not intermix with Christians, but form a separate body, and openly attacks the apostle Paul for having permitted the amalgamation of Jewish with heathenish converts. This new body calls itself the Amunite Community from the Hebrew amen.

THE HEAD OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH IN AMERICA.—Some time ago there was a good deal of talk about the Pope elevating some member of the Catholic hierarchy of this country to the rank of Cardinal, and Archbishop Hughes was very generaly spoken of as the most likely to be selected. Recently, however, we have heard nothing on the subject; but it appears that the hierarchy of the United States, occupied some portion of the attention of the Pope, for we find that in July last he confirmed a decree of the Propaganda, granting the prerogative of highest rank to the See of Baltimore, so that the Archbishop of that diocese henceforth takes precedence in all meetings and councils above any other Archbishop in this cuuntry—N. Y. Herald.

SELF-ESTEEM.—We cannot conceive a more pitiable and unhappy circumstance than persons having too high an opinion of their own merit. They are always conceiving some affront offered them, when such a thing was never intended. Instead of passing through life with a smile upon the lips and sunlight upon the brow, they are invariably fretful, moody individuals, clamoring loudly at the slightest ill which crosses their path, and imagining themselves insulted if every one does not appear to hold them in the same estimation in which they regard themselves.—Mason Mirror.

A NOVEL REMEDY FOR HOOPING COUGH. Great numbers of children laboring under hooping cough now visit the gas works of Preston, for the purpose of breathing the exhalations from the gas lime. It is said that all the little sufferers feel considerably relieved, and many are absolutely cured by this remedy.—Masonic Mirror

RAW MEAT IN DYSENTERY.—Dr. Weisse' of St. Petersburg, first in 1845, advised the employment of the lean of raw meat, very finely minced, in the chronic diarrhœa of children, giving two teaspoonfuls four times a day. Since then, the same practice has often been extended to various forms of obstinate diarrhœa, with good effect. Mr. Pensa, now practising in Egypt, reports the benefits he has derived in several cases of severe dysentery occurring in adults, from the employment of raw, or nearly raw meat, given in doses of from two or three times a day. —Medical Times.

Political State of the Holy See.

We copy the following excellent article from the correspondent at Rome, of the "Criminal Zeitung," of New York. The writer after giving a description of the celebration of the Vintage by the populace of Rome, continues :

"However, the ancient pagan October festivals which form such a contrast to the idea of ecclesiastical Rome, have, since several years, lost much of their vivacity. The reaction after the revolution; the military occupation of the city by the unpopular French; finally the inexorable sickness of the vine (Weinkrankheit) have damped all popular enjoyments. It is on this account that October, besides many days of the blowing of the Sirocco, was not distinguished for many festival days. But he brought an accession of French military. About the middle of the month, the 2d battallion of chasseurs, 700 in number, embarked from Marseilles and entered the city, in consequence of which, a batallion of infantry removed from Rome to Civita Vecchia. This ancient seaport and only fortification of the Papal States, on the Tuscan Mediterranean, is indeed of greater importance than can be Toscana, which is occupied by the Austrians. Situated in the centre of that coast, it commands the Tyrsanic ocean; and serving at the same time as the key to central Italy and the Roman See, in the occupation of a powerful military force, threatens Piedmont, Toscana and Naples. With the completion of the railroad between Civita Vecchia and Rome, (and half of it is finished, and the other part in the course of operation,) the Capital of the Papal States may be commanded from that port, and a garrison of a few hundred men in St. Angelo, may be sufficient to keep the city under control. At present, the French work incessantly at fortifying anew Civita Vecchia. It was for a long time the desire of this rich community to see the port enlarged by the removal of the ramparts more landwards; they repeatedly petitioned the Papal Government to do it, now it is done with great joy by the French, and at the expense of the community of Civita Vecchia. They enlarge the seaport, and construct the stone fortress, which they will never give up again, according to the strictest rules of military architecture.

Midway between this city and Rome, on the desolate coast, is situated the Castle of Palo where the only railway station will be; this firm spot is now occupied by the French, and if you add to these (to this spot and Civita Vecchia) the Castle of St. Angelo, you have the three military stations, all in the power of the French.

France has thus taken a firm footing in central Italy for all political purposes, and secured for herself an excellent basis for her operations for the future. The Romans look (with shame and despair at this rule of the foreigners, without a hope of ridcance). "The commanding general Goyon, of whose daily orders you probably have heard, rules in Rome, as far as military measures are concerned with uncircumscribed power, as in a city subjected to France; the Papal military [companies] are in a manner incorporated with the French, and absolutely obey the commands of the foreign chief, who prescribes the muster rolls and exercises the troops, and distributes decorations among the Papal officers, with the remarks that the Emperor rewards their merit. We may assert that the temporal power of the Popes is a mere mask since the French revolution of the last century, does now meet its final ectinction, and that ancient institution of the Franks under Pipin and Charlemagne, which has maintained itself for eleven centuries as the Pontifical State, will possibly meet its fall by Frank power. Important events are preparing, and the people see its prediction in the beautiful comet which now will ornament your horizon.

Jewish Opinion Respecting Salvation.

From that part of Poland belonging to Russia we hear of an interesting corollary to to the Grandenzer Jesuit scandal. In the Polish papers of Posen a violent religious discussion has been started, in which, however, the disputants on both sides are Roman Catholics, although a poor Jew unconsciously takes part in the business. The Polish book-seller, Zupanski, published a short time since the autobiagraphy of the renowned Polish historian, Lelewel, who it is well known resided in Brussels. Amongst other things is mentioned his rencontre with a sturdy Polish Jew who served him as coachman from Wilna to Warsaw. Lelewel entered into conversation with the Jew, and asked him the following question: "whether he really thought that the Jews as such, were more acceptable to God than the Christians? to which the Jew replied, "Our learned Talmudists maintain that the Jewish persuasion is the best, and most acceptable to God. It is true I am but an uneducated man, but it is nevertheless as contrary to my understanding as to my judgment that God should indiscriminately forsake all who are not Jews, and look on them with displeasure. God is the one God over all, and cannot condemn those who serve and praise him with their whole heart. Whether Jews, Christians, or Mohammedans, they are pleasing to God if they walk in the paths of virtue and goodness." "Hereupon I replied" remarked Lelewel, "Right, my friend, you think well and nobly." Against this expression of the celebrated historian, the ultramontane paper, "Przeglad (Rundichau) Pognanski," furiously takes the field, and calls it as impious and dangerous as the religious views of the poor Wilna Jew. Both, however, were well defended by the correspondent of the "Warczawska Gazette," who although a good Catholic—as he himself assures us—yet utterly condemns the obstinate Jesuitism of the "Przeglad;" he, indeed, goes so far as to politely request them, in his humourous manner, to be so kind as to add his name to the list of the impious and condemned.—Daily Telegraph.

Singular Passage of Scripture.

A correspondent of the "Independent" has assumed that Job was a prophet, and has given himself to the interpretation of his prophecies. The following is a specimen: "I believe the leviathan which Job so clearly and beautifully describes, is not a whale, or any other living monster of the deep. A steam engine on the railroard, in itself, has no life yet it moves at the rate of twenty miles per hour with ease; so, for aught we know, the Leviathan, or English steamship, may move with the same velocity, and if so, will it not literally fulfill the ancient prophecy recorded in Job xii.? Begin with the nineteenth verse, and suppose he is describing a huge steamboat instead of a whale: 'Out of his mouth go burning lamps, and sparks of fire leap out. Out of his nostrils goeth smoke, as out of a seething pot or cauldron. His breast kindleth coals, and a flame goeth out of his mouth. He maketh the deep boil like a pot. He maketh the sea like a pot of ointment. He maketh a path to shine after him; one would think the deep to be white or hoary.' Now I would ask any one who has looked from the stern of a steamship when sailing, if Job has not described the wake of the boat to the very life?" We never knew before that a steamship had life in itself, but the question is now settled. This exegesis remimds us of a somewhat similar one we heard given by a divine some time since, who asserted that Job had predicted the telegraph, in proof of which he quoted the following: "Canst thou send lightnings, that they may go and say unto thee, Here we are?" Now this is very much like a description of the telegraph, vastly more so than is Jop's description of the leviathan like an English steamer. Professor Espy, the rain maker, as he was called, may yet have hope if Job is to to be relied on as an artistic prophet, inasmuch as he is equally clear in regard to the subject of rain making. "Canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover thee?"—Christian Advocate.

(CORRESPONENCE.)

EDITOR GLEANER.—Dear Doctor: The "Mortara" meeting at Musical Hall must have been most gratifying to the Israelites, not because the meeting was largely attended by all creeds, for they attended the meeting to express their opinion on an outrage which strikes at "civil and religious liberty," not only as to Judaism, for Protestantism occupies (in this case) common ground with the Israelites.

The true cause of congratulation is to be found in the liberal spirit of the divine and lay speakers, who addressed the meeting.

There is indeed a spirit of toleration abroad which argues favorably for the future. The concession made by one of the speakers at Musical Hall, that the Israelites possessed all the senses and faculties of other men, requires but to be realized by the world, to place the Jew in the foremost rank of the great and learned among nations.

My object, dear Doctor, in writing, is to express to you my disappointment (which was felt by hundreds) at your remarks being cut short just when your hearers began to comprehend the true state of the "Mortara case." The gentlemen that addressed the meeting, committed one great error. They supposed that the people fully understood the true position of the case. Not one out of ten knew the particulars, and scarcely any the position the canon law has placed the Catholic Church in. No one but yourself touched upon the subject. It is a matter of regret that you did not speak later in the evening, as then the business portion of the meeting would not have been checked by a long and interesting speech at the opening.

Many of the audience were suprised at the remarks made by Dr. Henry as to your preliminary and striking illustration about the Custom House. It was, to say the least, bad tasle in tha reverend gentleman to attempt reflecting on one of the "same cloth" at a public meeting, consisting of Jews and Gentiles, and it argues but little for his judgment and the "charity" of his order, if the Rev. Doctor may be taken as a specimen. *

Not everything holy is true; but whatever is true is holy.—Deborah.

Amendment after Amendment.

The "Masonic Mirror" quotes an exchange, in which the editor complains of finding his editorials copied in other papers without acknowledgment, which case is aggravated by the statement of another editor, who says: that he finds his best articles not even noticed; to which another could add: that he finds them to draw the thunder of condemnation upon his head.

Protestant Intervention.

A correspondent of the "Beacon" expresses himself thus on these matters: "We learn with great pleasure, that the steps taken by the Evangelical Alliance on behalf of certain persecuted Roman Catholic ladies in Sweden, have been extensively followed by the Protestant communities of other countries from Constantinople to New York. The Protestants of Turkey have addressed the Swedish ambassador at the Porte, in terms touchingly, exhibiting the need in which they, or Turkey, stand of Protestant governments setting the example of freedom. The Protestants of Pesth, and elsewhere in Hungary, have sent through England a respectful address to his Majesty the King of Sweden. The old Vanddois and the young Italian churches of Piedmont, have united in an appeal which has been placed in the hands of the Swedish consul at Genoa. Lausanne, Basle, and Geneva have all moved, Geneva, in the shape of an address signed by the leading Christian men of that canton, to the public press or Sweden, urging its conductors to press upon the Swedish nation a sense of the guilt and mischief of Protestant persecution. The central committee of the Evangelical Alliance for French speaking nations, is this year (in rotation) at Geneva, and has addressed a letter to the council of the British branch, expressing the unanimous feeling of Swiss, Belgian, and French Protestants in favor of the liberty of Roman Catholics. Other addresses are understood to be in process of signature in Germany and the North of Europe; while American Christians, with characteristic ardor, have issued a similar document, which it is understood that Gen. Cass, Minister for Foreign Affairs, has been asked to transmit to Stockholm. We could almost wish that the American government might avoid participating in the proceeding. We would not for the world that the noble people of Sweden should think that foreign governments would ever think of dictating to them. Not that American Christians would dream of such a thing, but we should even regret the appearance of it.

Funeral Procession of Captain Paulson Dietrich.

In addition to the account given in No. 49 of the "Gleaner," of the forcible baptism of Captain Dietrich by the Nuns in the Hospital of the Sisters of St Louis, we here add the following from the "Anzeiger des Westens :"

"The funeral of the baptised Jew whose mortal remains were rescued by the Israelites of this city from the Hospital of the Sisters, took place yesterday afternoon from the Synagogue. The participation in the same was unusually general, and speaks more plainly than anything else for the sense of unity of Israelites, and for their faithful adherance to each other. An eye-witness reports that an interminable file of carriages and buggies, more than a hundred in number, followed the coffin. Neither was there any want of addresses. The solemn funeral procession was a loud protest of the Israelites of this city, against the encroachments of power exercised by the Roman Catholic Church.

I. O. OF BENAI BERITH AT SACRAMENTO. PRESENTATION OF CHARTER TO ETHAM LODGE, No. 37.

The past two days have been very agreeable ones.

R. W. G. L. D. Jacob Vogelsdorff, assisted by the Past Presidents of the Order, and a delegation consisting of some twenty members from Ophir Lodge No. 21, repaired thither to inaugurate the Order in our city, which they did by the Initiating twenty petitioners and presenting them with a Charter and all the necessary Regalia, Paraphernalia &c.

The Initiatory ceremonies took place between the hours of 9 and 12 on Sunday the 23d; then a recess of three hours, after which the degrees, were conferred, the Lodge consecrated, and its Officers installed. From 7 until 9 a supper with its usual accompaniments were enjoyed.

Among the toasts were the following:

The M. W. Constitution G. Lodge and D. G. L. No. I.

Responded to by R. W. G. L. D. Jacob Vogelsdorff, who in turn offered—

Etham Lodge No. 37, with an appropriate sentiment.

Responded to by Joseph Davis, President.

"The Past Presidents of the Order."

Responded to by Seixas Solomons, as also the toast "Woman in her capacities, as Mother Sister, Wife and Daughter.

"Ophir Lodge No. 21—Responded to by M. B. Ashim. Several others were given which were appropriately answered by Rev. Dr. H. A. Henry, L. Heineberg, Jacob Greenebaum L. Gerstle, D. B. Woolf, H. Kozminsky, G. Ahronson, M. Waterman and others.

An adjournment, to enjoy the social circle, completed the ceremonies.

On Monday, the Lodge was opened, and under the superintendence above specified, worked in the several degrees, and for the sake of instruction &c., a part of the delegation will remain here during the week.

Altogether it was one of the most agreeable periods that I have ever experienced, and will undoubtedly long be remembered. As to the members of Etham Lodge, it does not behoove me to speak, save the remark that they are proud of their guests, and of the occasion that has brought them together as Brethren and friends.

Respectively Yours.

"ONE OF THE INITIATED."

Agency of the Masonic Mirror and Keystone, and the Masonic Library, for California and Oregon, is at the office of the Gleaner.

These publications edited by Leon Hyneman, published at Philadelphia and New York, are too well known, their character too well established, to require any further recommendations.

The Mirror and Keystone.

The practical and literary contents of the "Mirror and Keystone" render it worthy a place in any library: and the size (an octavo sheet, appearing weekly) render it convenient for binding.

"The Mirror and Keystone" will be sent to any part of this stase or Oregon, at two dollars per annum; or post paid, at two dollars and fifty cents. Brothers or Lodges taking no less than ten copies, will receive such by mail free of postage at two dollars the copy per annum.

Copies will be delivered in this city to subscribers (post-paid) at two dollars and fifty cents per annum. The "Masonic Mirror" and the "Gleaner," will be forwarded to any part of California for seven dollars a year, payment in advance.

The Masonic Library.

The Masonic Library, in two volumes, 760 pages each, (each volume complete in itself) contains works of the highest value, and should be in the hands of every Mason.

This treasury of Masonic lore, as will be seen from the following works, is the cheapest Masonic publication ever published.

The first volume contains "The Antiquities of Freemasonry," "Illustrations of Freemasonry," "History of Freemasonry," "Anderson's Constitutions," 1753 Ed., "Book of the Lodge," "Mant's Pocket Companion," and "Sandy's History of Freemasonry."

The second volume contains "Dermott's Ahiman Rezon," "Symbolic Dictionary," "History of Initiation," "Halliwell's Ancient Poem," supposed to have been written ne later than the fourteenth century, "Constitutions of Freemasonry," 1738 Ed., and "Constitutions of the Grand Lodge of Scotland."

The "Masonic Library" is sold in separate volumes, or complete at four dollars a volume in wrappers, and five dollars nicely bound in cloth; allowing one dollar for postage, till the work may reach by some other conveyance.

Communications to the "Masonic Mirror and Keystone," or any items of Masonic news, may be addressed to "office of Gleaner," San Francisco.

Notice.

We shall, with the next volume, (the first number of which will appear on the 11th of February,) publish a list of some of our subscribers, to most of whom we have, from time to time, addressed letters, without receiving an answer.

To some we send the "Gleaner" since its first issue, two years ago, without hearing from them; and we would not discontinue sending, because by so doing, we should have lost all further chance of recovering what was due.

By the insertion of the names in our columns, the friends of those who may have changed their residence or left the country, without thinking of giving us notice, will have an opportunity to send us information, (by mail, to our office,) and they will oblige by doing so.

In many, perhaps in most instances, the neglect is owing to the smallness of amount due, or to the supposed risk in forwarding small sums through the Post Office; although we have invariably received all money remitted in postage stamps, or in cash stitched or pasted inside a letter.

Our friends, and also Postmasters, will oblige by notifying us about the changes that may have taken place.

Address, "Office Gleaner," San Francisco.

The Family.

Woman.

"Let me kiss for his him mother."

The editor of the New Orleans Advocate, November 3rd, has this incident about the ravages of the yellow fever in that city, related to him by one of the Methodist pastors: "The preacher was called a few days since to attend the funeral of a young man. Before sickness, he was a stout, buoyant, manly youth. He was from the State of Maine, and had been here a short time. He was attacked with yellow fever and soon died, with no mother or relative to watch by his bedside, or to soothe him with that sympathy which none but those of our own 'dear kindred blood' can feel or manifest. He died among strangers, and was buried by them. When the funeral service was over, and the strange friends who had ministered to him were about to finally close the coffin, an old lady who stood by, stopped them and said, 'Let me kiss him for his mother!' We have yet to find the first man or woman to whose eye this simple recital has not brought tears. That dear old lady, whoever she is, is probably unconscious of having uttered a sentiment and performed an action, unsurpassed in beautiful simplicity and sublime eloquence. May her sons, when they die, not lack a mother's sympathy; but if they should, may they find one who will kiss them for their mother!

How to do Good.

Most people, from their reflective faculties not being brought into play, hardly understand what doing good means, till, perchance, they stumble upon a good action, when the presiding judge, Conscience, gives his verdict of "all right." It is then manifested.

A quaint writer, who takes to himself the cognomen of "Charles Quill," gives a short and easy method of doing good, which will be found as effectual a one as could be adopted. He says:

Why do you begin to do good so far off? This is a ruling error. Begin at the centre and work outward. If you do not love your wife, do not pretend too much love for the people at the antipodes.

If you let some family grudge—some pecadillo—some undesirable gesture to sour your visage toward a sister or daughter, pray cease to teach beneficence on a large scale.

Begin not at the next door, but within your own door—then with your next neighbour, whether relative, servant or superior.

Account the man you meet the man you are to bless. Give him such things as you have—"how can I make him or her happier?" that is the question. If a dollar will do it, give the dollar—if advice will do, give advice—if a look, a smile, or a warm pressure of the hand, or even a tear, bestow it.

One thing never forget—that the happiness of our world is a mountain of golden sands, and that it is your part to cast some contributory atom every moment.
—Mirror and Keystone.

"Blue Sky Somewhere."

Children are eloquent teachers. Many a lesson which has done our heart good, have we learned from their lisping lips. It was but the other day another took root in memory. We were going to a pic-nic, and of course the little ones had been in ecstacies for several days. But the appointed morning broke with no glad sunshine, no songs of birds, no peals of mirth. There was every prospect of rain—even Hope hid her face and wept.

"Shan't we go, mother?' exclaimed a child of five with passionate emphasis.

"If it clears off."

"But when will it clear off?"

"Oh, look out for the blue sky!"

And so he did, poor little fellow, but never a bit of blue sky gladdened his eyes.

"Well, I don't care, mother," said he when the tedious day had at length numbered all its hours, "If I haven't seen it, I know that there is blue sky somewhere."

The next morning there was blue sky, a whole heaven full of it, clear, glorious blue sky, such as only greets us after a weary storm. "There, mother, didn't I tell you so?" cried a joyous voice; "There is blue sky!"

Then the little head dropped for a moment in silent thought.

"Mother!" exclaimed the child, when he again looked up, "there must have been blue sky all day, yesterday, though I never saw a bit of it, cos you see, there ain't no place where it could have gone to—God only covered it up with clouds, didn't he?"—Boston Spiritual Age.

DEATH BY LAUGHTER.

On April 19, 1782, died Mrs. Fitzherbert, relict of the late Rev. Mr. F. of Northamptonshire. On the Wednesday evening before her death, this lady went to Drury-lane Theatre, in company with some friends, to see the Beggar's Opera. On Mr. Bannister's making his appearance in the character of Polly, the whole audience was thrown into an uproar of laughter; unfortunately the actor's whimsical appeaaance had a fatal effect on Mrs. Fitzherbert: she could not suppress the laugh that seized her on the first view of this enormous representation; and before the second act was over, she was obliged to leave the theatre. Mrs. F. not being able to banish the figure from her memory, was thrown into hysterics, which continued without intermission until Friday morning when she expired.

I'll never Forgive.
I DON'T WONDER.

The brave only, know how to forgive; it is the most refined and generous pitch of virtue human nature can arrive at. Cowards have done good and kind actions—cowards have even fought, nay, sometimes conquered; but a coward never forgave; it is not in his nature; the power of doing it, flows only from a strength and greatness of soul conscious of its own force and security, and above all the little temptations of resenting every fruitless attempt to interrupt its happiness.—Hesperian.
